

Returning You to You

Instructions: It is time to address yourself, or better yet —the a year from now you. What do you want future you to remember, still love and appreciate about current you? Write about your special qualities and attributes, the beautiful pieces that make you. The only rule is to not be critical. This is your love letter to you. This is so future you can remember what has made this journey so special. After you write the letter, store it away and create a Google reminder to open it a year from now. You only need to wait a year, trust us. And as usual, check us at thewritingorbit.com for more astrology worksheets!
